Table of Contents

A beautifully illustrated, playful exploration of how we relate to others and the world around us.

Between poetry and narrative, this story rhythmically explores the myriad ways collaboration shapes our lives, as parents and children discuss how the words and watercolor illustrations come together to conjure each idea. Bilingual edition.

Tomas Moniz is the editor of the award-winning Rad Dad zine, which produced two literary anthologies: Rad Dad (2011) and Rad Families: A Celebration (2017). He is also the recipient of the SF Literary Arts Foundation's 2016 Mary Tanenbaum Award.

Alicia Dornadic paints primarily in watercolor to capture the details of daily life. She is a design researcher with a background in anthropology and art history.

Ricardo Cortés's stunning seascapes follow the story of a shark that has a story to share about creatures who live above the ocean. At its surface, our shark encounters strange-looking creatures who resemble nice, caring marine biologists. But after they release it back into the ocean, the shark cannot find one friend to believe its tale. Filled with humor and warmth, this book will charm children and parents alike.

Ricardo Cortés is the illustrator of the #1 New York Times bestselling classic for parents about putting their children to bed, as well as the G-rated follow-up for children, Seriously, Just Go to Sleep.

Wolf devours books, literally. After helping a librarian find some missing books, he learns to enjoy reading.

There once was a wolf whose appetite for books was insatiable. Big, small, fairy tales, dictionaries . . . He devoured them all! His taste for paper was only matched by his great aversion for reading. Reading was so boring! That is until Wolf finds himself in the Country of Books where he has to help a librarian find ten missing books.

This story will help parents and educators address children's resistance to reading. It also introduces young readers to ten great classics as they learn to turn pages, rather than eat them.

Works featured include Alice in Wonderland, Peter Pan, Pinocchio, and The Jungle Book.

This accessible and poetic story introduces children to the subject of climate change and the importance of protecting nature.

Lucy has a special gift—she can make the sun smile. However, when the Earth gets sick, Lucy can also feel it. Her tears travel from the wings of a dragonfly all across the planet, where a little boy finally understands what is going on. Her story then spreads across the globe and everyone makes their own little gesture to heal the Earth and Lucy.

Lucy and the Dragonfly introduces the subject of climate change and the protection of nature in an accessible and poetic way. The gentle illustrations strike the perfect balance with this serious topic.

Black Inc.

Melbourne, Australia

Black Inc. is an independent Australian publisher of quality nonfiction, fiction, and poetry. We love ideas and stories. We are passionate about important new works of history, politics, biography, criticism, and current affairs, as well as novels and poems that open up new worlds. In 2007, 2009, and 2015 we were awarded Australian Small Publisher of the Year.

Under the masthead of Black Inc., Nero publishes exciting and entertaining local and international commercial mass-market titles. Our goal is simple: to deliver books that are diverting, spirited, and clever. We care about our authors and believe in having the time and vision to nurture them, be they debut or established.

La Trobe University Press (LTUP) is a joint imprint of Black Inc. and La Trobe University. It publishes leading scholars and experts, producing books of high intellectual quality, substance, and originality.

Between Us is the story of two teenagers—Jono and Anahita—falling in love for the first time. There's just one thing standing between them: twenty kilometres of barbed wire fence. Anahita lives in the Wickham Point Immigration Detention Centre, where asylum seekers are detained while they wait to be "processed" by the Australian government. Jono has no idea about any of this. All he knows is that there's a beautiful new girl with dark eyes, who keeps looking over in his direction—is it possible she likes him?

Clare Atkins has worked as a scriptwriter for many successful Australian television series. Between Us is her second novel.

This collection of five interlinked stories takes us from Ghana to Orkney, and from Spain to Norway and Thailand. As a minor character from one story assumes a major role in the next, we meet a fascinating cast, including Imoro the magic elephant, the Walrus Prince, the Wild Princesses of Rousay and The Fish-man of the Purple Lake, who was once a beautiful boy from the Sahel.

Yaba Badoe is an award-winning documentary filmmaker and writer. A graduate of King's College Cambridge, she worked as a civil servant in Ghana before joining the BBC. In 2009 her debut novel, True Murder, was published by Jonathan Cape.

A diverting adventure story, set in South Africa, that covers universal issues of bullying and friendships.

Nolitye lives in a shack with her mother Thembi in a dusty township on the edge of Johannesburg. She is good at maths and likes collecting stones, which she places in a bucket under her bed. She also has unusual powers: she can communicate with dogs.

Nolitye has two close friends, overweight Bheki and bespectacled Four Eyes, who join with her to resist the bullying from Rotten Nellie and her gang of Spoilers. One day, Nolitye finds a special stone that has the power to make people feel happy and laugh. Her mission from now on is to gather together the other pieces of the stone and reunite them, to stop darkness from taking control of her world.

A diverting adventure story, set in South Africa and suitable for boys and girls alike.

K. Sello Duiker was born and raised in Soweto. He attended Rhodes University, where he completed a degree in journalism. By the time of his untimely death, had published various short stories and two novels. Thirteen Cents was awarded the Commonwealth Prize for a first novel, while The Quiet Violence of Dreams won the Herman Charles Bosman Prize for English Literature.

Princess Arabella and her friends embark upon their first day at Princess School. They find themselves taking some very unusual lessons—and when they are allowed to bring their pets to school, fun and games ensue!

An engaging and entertaining diverse picture book for children three and up.

Mylo Freeman grew up in The Hague and lives in Amsterdam. She has been a full-time writer-illustrator since 1993 and has published over fifty picture books. Freeman's books have been translated into many languages.

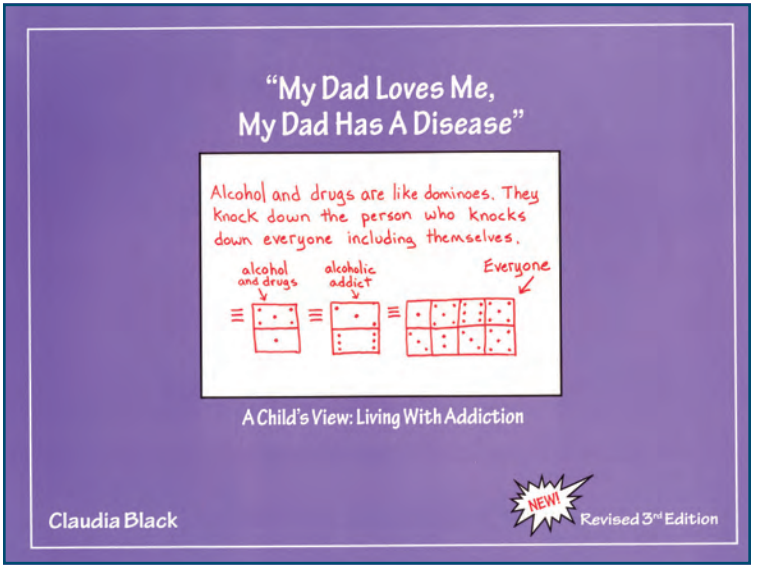
A revised edition of Dr. Claudia Black's remarkable book for children growing up in families ravaged by addiction.



Children who grow up in addicted families usually learn at a very young age that it is not safe for them to openly talk about their family experiences. This updated edition of My Dad Loves Me, My Dad Has a Disease gives children ages five to twelve the opportunity to work through their feelings of loss, loneliness, fear, and frustration, both verbally and through drawing exercises. Through sharing their thoughts and feelings, children can develop a better understanding of addiction and how it affects their parent(s).

My Dad Loves Me, My Dad Has a Disease has been used to help thousands of children. It has become a springboard to help children from families ravaged by addiction to experience their own recovery process.

- Written by one of the world's foremost experts on how addiction affects families.
- Written from a child's point of view.
- The only book of its kind, with original pictures and stories, drawn and written by children age five through fourteen who were treated by Dr. Black.

Claudia Black, PhD is a world-renowned expert on addiction and codependency, bestselling author, and trainer internationally recognized for her pioneering and contemporary work with family systems and addictive disorders. Her writings and teachings have become a standard in the field of addiction. Dr. Black is the Clinical Architect of the Claudia Black Center for Young Adults, a Senior Fellow, and Addiction and Trauma Program Specialist at The Meadows Treatment Center in Arizona.

Phone Book is an activity book that mimics the design of a smartphone to create a book-as-object to delight children, teens, and adults.

The exact size and shape of a mobile phone, this book takes the screen out of screen-time and brings distraction activities firmly into the analogue realm. Draw your best and worst selfie, copy out the funniest text exchange you've ever had, design your favorite game, do a faceswap with a cat, write out your life philosophies in 140 characters, and invent some new apps to suit your lifestyle. With a sheet of emoji stickers to color and complete, this is a gorgeous activity book that is sure to get your creative juices flowing, and bring a smile to the most hardened of screen-addicts.

Matilda Tristram is a writer, animator and illustrator. She is the author of graphic novel, Probably Nothing (Penguin 2014) and two children's books; Santa's Beard and Reindeer's Nose (Walker, 2014). She has writing credits on numerous children's television shows, and her comic strips have featured in the Guardian, Vice, Glamour and Art Review.

1958. The people who live by the iron river are mostly Mexican. Do their lives matter? Not to the cops.

A river runs through young Manny "Man-on-Fire" Maldonado's life, heart, and darkest dreams. But this river isn't water, it's iron—the rails of the Southern Pacific railroad that pass along his tight-knit neighborhood in the San Gabriel valley just ten miles east of Los Angeles. The iron river is everything to Manny. He watches it, he waits for it, he listens for the rush of its currents (strong currents flowing east pulling two hundred boxcars, light currents going west with fewer than fifty), he plays on its dangerous banks. Manny and his friends Danny, Marco, and Little spend endless summer days lining up cans and bottles on the tracks to derail the locomotives, rushing by like black beasts. But nothing stops the iron river. And nothing stops the stinkin' cop Turk—the terror of the neighborhood—from trying to pin a hobo's death on the four young boys.

Like Manny, Daniel Acosta lived his childhood in San Gabriel, California, in the 1950s, in a Mexican-American neighborhood and across the street from the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks. A former member of the Los Angeles Barrio Writer's Workshop, Daniel is the father of four and lives with his wife Linda in Rosemead, California.

Chela faces the challenges of sixth grade after losing her father, her very best friend. Now available in Spanish.

Chela Gonzalez, the book's narrator, is a nerd and a soccer player who can barely contain her excitement about starting the sixth grade. But nothing is as she imagined—her best friend turns on her to join the popular girls and they all act like Chela doesn't exist. She buries herself in schoolwork and in the warm comfort of her family. To Chela, her family is like a solar system, with her father the sun and her mother, brothers, and sister like planets rotating all around him. It's a small world, but it's the only one she fits in.

But that universe is threatened when her strong father has a stroke. Chela's grandmother moves in to help the family. The smell of her old lady perfume invades the house. That smell is worse than Sundays. Sundays were sad, but they went just as sure as they came. Death was a whole other thing, and Chela doesn't understand that's what everyone is waiting for. In her grief and worry, Chela begins to discover herself and find her own strength.

Claudia Guadalupe Martinez grew up in sunny El Paso, Texas where she learned that letters form words from reading the subtitles of old westerns with her father. She now lives and writes in Chicago. Her day to day includes raising three kids and three chickens. Her other books include: Pig Park (Cinco Puntos, 2014), and Not a Bean (Charlesbridge, 2018).

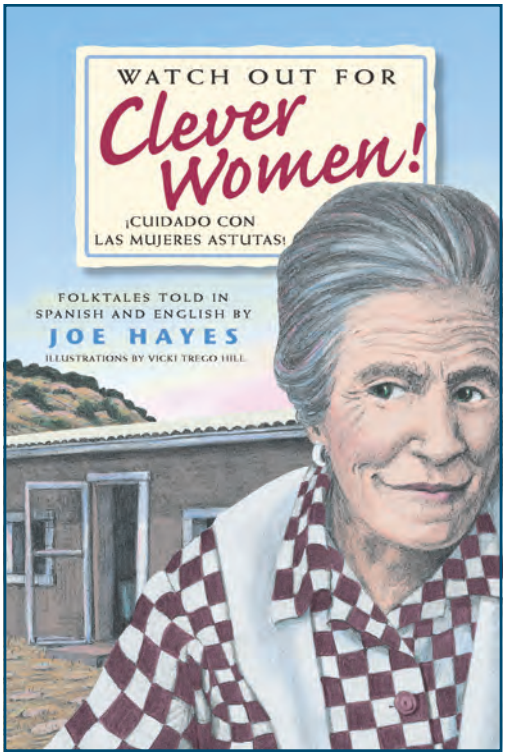
A bilingual collection of humorous trickster tales, the smooth operators being women who use their formidable smarts to outwit scamming villains, husbands, brothers, fathers, and sweethearts. A sly woman tricks two shysters who thought they had robbed her of a ham while an astute housewife saves her household's goods and gold by convincing her foolish husband that it had snowed tortillas. These tales cultivate lessons of honesty, goodness, hospitality, and honor, not to mention intelligence, tenacity, and the will to survive.

As Joe Hayes points out, "People the world over tell stories of a humble individual tricking an overbearing person of higher status, but the idea is especially cherished in Hispanic storylore. Making the trickster a woman, who would traditionally be thought of as less powerful than a man, adds spice to the trick." Reformatted in the style of Joe Hayes's popular collections of stories—The Day It Snowed Tortillas and The Coyote Under the Table—this new edition of the Hayes classic will include three more of Joe's favorite stories.



Joe Hayes is one of America's premier storytellers, a nationally recognized teller of tales from the Hispanic, Native American, and Anglo traditions. His books have won multiple awards and he is beloved by children all over the country who love hearing him tell stories.

One crocodile with many sharp teeth, two snake-necked turtles swimming in a billabong, three water goannas soaking up the sun . . .

One, two, three. Nakudji, bokenh, danjbik. Children and adults alike will enjoy learning the Kunwinjku words for crocodile, echidna, dragonfly, and more. Whether teaching you to notice the signs of when fish are ready to be caught or how to hunt a turtle, the fascinating Kunwinjku Counting Book offers insight into the complex ecology of West Arnhem Land and the holistic nature of Kunwinjku Aboriginal culture.

Artist Gabriel Maralngurra of the Ngalngbali clan draws inspiration for his paintings from the rock art of West Arnhem Land and works as an ambassador and intercultural mediator for Kunwinjku culture.

Summer vacation is going great for a girl who has everything to herself—including Grandpa—until a gray patch arrives.

Time moves slowly on vacation. And for someone who has had the garden, the kitchen, the forest paths, and the lake—as well as Grandpa—all to herself, inviting another in on the fun can be hard. So when the young girl's grandfather brings an elephant home to stay, she is not happy about it at all. Nostalgic and often dreamlike, this wordless story is about interrupted solitude, learning how to be together with another, and how the choices we make deeply affect our lives.

Blexbolex is the author of Seasons, a New York Times Book Review Best Illustrated book of 2010, as well as People and Ballad.

Macanudo: Olga Rules (#4) is a supremely good compilation of strips from cartoonist Liniers. Full of surrealism and magic, this fourth volume of the great Macanudo introduces one of Liniers's most beloved characters—Olga. Olga is the imaginary friend of Martin, a young elementary school boy. Olga only ever says Olga, but Martin knows what she means. Together, they demonstrate the vitality of imagination and its inherently comic nature, relating the sublime and the ridiculous, as it always does. Olga and Martin also share numerous great strips with Henrietta, Liniers's bookish girl character, and her sidekicks Mandelbaum the teddy bear, Fellini the cat, the sensitive Robot, Olivero the Olive, and more. This is a standout volume that will set your heart singing. Don't miss Olga. Olga is coming. Olga rules!

Liniers is a famous Argentine cartoonist who has done many covers for The New Yorker and has published some great books with TOON based on his Macanudo character, Henrietta.

"Raphael loves Jerome. I can say it. It's easy."

This story follows a little boy named Raphael, whose daily rhythm is steeped in his immense affection for his friend Jerome. The two boys share jokes and snacks and plan future adventures to the Himalayas. Even when Raphael's constant talk of Jerome is driving his parents crazy, he remains steadfast: "Raphael loves Jerome. I can say it. It's easy." And the truth is, when he's with Jerome, Raphael feels happy, liked, and understood—even special. Thomas Scotto's simple, strong, and insightful prose and Olivier Tallec's delightful, expressive illustrations give much emotion and immediacy to the story.

In a series of vignettes, we hear the story of seven different Pablos living life at once.

Pablo lives in Chile with his hardworking father. But Pablo also lives in Ecuador, deep in the Amazon rainforest. There is another Pablo living with his family in Mexico, after they fled the dictatorship in Argentina. In New York, he lives in an overcrowded apartment in the Bronx, where he's only allowed home for twelve hours at a time. Pablo is also the son of a rural schoolteacher in Peru, and another Pablo picks through garbage to survive in Rio de Janeiro, while yet another is trying to get from Guatemala to Los Angeles. Chiara Carrer's stunning illustrations bring poet Jorge Lujan's small stories of Pablos around the world to beautiful, touching life.

Finn knows his brother is gone. But he also knows that Hamish sent the beautiful white feather on his doorstep.

Finn runs to show his mother the feather left for him by his brother Hamish, who is now an angel, but she only gives him a big hug. In school, Finn's teacher responds similarly. Why isn't anyone as excited as he is? Finn sits quietly, cradling the beautiful, amazing feather. "Why did Hamish give it to you?" asks his friend. "Maybe he wanted to say hi?" wonders Finn. "Maybe," his friend replies, mischief sparkling in his eyes, "Hamish wanted you to have fun with it." Finn's Feather, beautifully illustrated by Zoey Abbot, is a story of love, loss, memory, and presence. It was written by Rachel Nobel following the loss of her son in 2012. This marks the author's and illustrator's debut into the world of picture books.

A song, a riff, and a playful romp—this is a lively contemplation about being present to all of life!

In this whimsical celebration of the senses, you'll see, hear, feel, smell, and even taste the world in entertaining and thoughtful new ways! Do you hear the humming of apples? Have you ever smelled dog lips? Can you see the hidden world within the grass? Ohara Hale's Be Still, Life is keenly aware of life's immediacy, but that doesn't mean we should move through life fast. For when your body is calm and your mind is still, attention deepens until that snail's lengthening shadow suddenly seems the biggest thing you've ever seen.

They have made a very serious decision—they are going on an adventure. All by themselves, just the two of them.

They have made a very serious decision—they are going on an adventure. All by themselves. Just the two of them. They will bring coffee and blankets and a cozy tent. They will pack a backpack with a flashlight and something to cuddle. And, just in case, a jump rope to use as a lasso. They set up camp in the lee of a small mountain (e.g. their backyard) and get ready for an evening of independence and adventure. But when the pickles are gone and the mosquitoes come out, what's to be done? The Grand Expedition is the quietly comic story of two kids and their dad and the everyday adventures that make life great.

Emma Adbåge, born in Linköping, Sweden, in 1982, is an award-winning author and illustrator. Her first picture book, Mimsan och Mormorn (Mimsan and Grandmother), was published when she was just eighteen years old. Her twin sister, Lisen, also writes and illustrates picture books.

Have you ever been faced by the overwhelming feeling of I DON'T WANT TO? Koko has.

He doesn't want to go home, he doesn't want to go to sleep, and he doesn't want to get up either! But Bo is patient. He knows that Koko will come home when he is bored, will go to sleep when he is tired, and will get up when he is hungry—he just has to wait for Koko to figure it out for himself. Koko and Bo is about two people, one big and one small, quietly negotiating the relationship between freedom and trust to reach a better understanding of each other and the world.

Lisen Adbåge, born in Linköping, Sweden, in 1982, is an author and illustrator. Her first picture book, Ellen & Bebis (Ellen & Baby), was published when she was just eighteen years old. The recipient of numerous awards, she is best known for her books about Koko and Bo, which have been hailed as modern-day classics. Her twin sister, Emma, also writes and illustrates picture books.

John puts a pot on his head while his mother bakes a cake. The next thing we know, he invites his friends over for a costume party. What will they wear? With each page turn, we wait to see. Vera arrives tangled up in string, a "meatball covered in spaghetti." And Sarah, as a mountain, inching across the floor under a carpet.

First published in 1956, Dress Up and Let's Have a Party is a pleasing and thought-provoking book about impulse and ingenuity.

Meet Dumpster Dog. He sleeps outside, walks himself, and eats whatever he wants, whenever he wants.

But freedom isn't everything and Dumpster Dog needs a friend. He wants someone to play with, someone who will take him on long walks, someone who will feed him. He dreams of treats, balls, and leashes. So begins Dumpster Dog's search for a human companion. But he will soon learn that finding a good human isn't as easy as it sounds, and that the world can be a dangerous place.

Marc Boutavant is an award-winning author and illustrator. For years, Boutavant has drawn for picture books and comics, and he's done his fair share of editorial illustration as well. His cartoons and picture books have made him a widely sought-after illustrator. Boutavant's lively, expressive, and inventive illustrations appeal to both children and their parents, for they are simple and complex, witty, playful, and probing all at the same time.

A cryptozoological kids book that not only introduces the scientific method but also emphasizes the importance of imagination and play.

A book full of advice about how not to make a flop's life hard! What is a flop? A flop is malleable, can't make a telephone call on its own, can't wear a collar, and many other things besides. There are also hundreds of different sorts of flops. In a humorous, pseudo-scientific guide, Delphine Durand creates a world teeming with flops, describing their characteristics and lifestyles with great humor and precision.

Delphine Durand spent her childhood in Senegal, then in Montpellier. She has worked in children's books, advertising, and for the press since 1996.

A profound, thoughtful book about Down syndrome that at its heart is about what it means to truly love.

Simultaneously a diary, a scrapbook, and an illustrated story by a father about his son Malko, who has Down syndrome. Selected as the best title in the disability category at the Bologna Book Fair in 2016, this provocative, big-hearted book comes as a revelation, as well as a call to think through human engineering and the drive to "perfect" the human species.

Born in Argentina, Gusti studied advertising design at the Escola d'Art Fernando Fade and has lived in Europe since 1985. He first worked in Paris and currently lives in Barcelona where, as well as working as an illustrator, he also gives classes in illustration at schools, libraries, and cultural centers. He co-founded the nonprofit association Windown-La Ventana, which works towards building a more inclusive society. Gusti lives with his family in Barcelona.

The end result of a coven of witches conjuring up the charming Mr. Brungle is not exactly what they hoped for—or is it?

A coven of witches attempts to brew up a bewitching suitor with cumulative collectives of creepie-crawlies. A Tangle of Brungles upturns the conventional fairytale format and makes tongue-in-cheek allusions to Macbethian imagery.

Shobha Viswanath is co-founder and publishing director of Karadi Tales and has authored over twenty-five children's books.

Culpeo S. Fox, acclaimed illustrator of the award-winning book The Fox and the Crow, conveys the chaos and comedy through color, light, and shadow.

When unexpected things happen to Farmer Falgu's cargo for the market, he must come up with a plan to salvage what he can.

The next of the successful Farmer Falgu series follows the hardworking farmer as he turns a succession of obstacles into an incredible opportunity. Chitra Soundar's onomatopoeic text makes this read-aloud riot a delight for both the reader and the listener. Falgu's relentless optimism, the enticing food and vividly described smells, and Kanika Nair's evocative illustrations showcasing life in rural India make this an authentic and entertaining picture book about the power of hope.

Chitra Soundar has written over twenty books for children and resides in London.

Kanika Nair has a degree in communication design and works as an illustrator and designer of children's books.

The fix is in as the Double+ gang try to counter crooked counterfeiters from the inside!

Plus Man and Hank have been blacklisted and have replaced treasure hunting with job-hunting, before landing a catering job at a swank hotel. But trouble doesn't wait for hors d'oeuvres as the boys find themselves with a main course of counterfeiting crooks to crack!

The Double+ universe is a sincerely joyous and fun place presented in a brilliantly bright and fluid cartooning style that is simply infectious. Plus Man and Hank are the Tin Tin and Snowy for the fidget spinner set, but can be enjoyed, and are enjoyed, by those who played with pogs, jacks, marbles, etc. It is a truly all-ages series with something for everyone.

Ben Sears is a Louisville, KY based cartoonist, illustrator, and musician. His Double+ character has appeared in a number of zines, online anthologies and in the all-ages adventure comics Night Air and Volcano Trash, where he has been perpetually in over his head.

Ibn Battuta was no ordinary traveller. Between 1325 CE when he set off from Morocco and 1354 CE when he finally returned home, he had visited about forty modern countries and travelled roughly 75,000 miles, going on foot, camel, horse, wagon, boat and even sled.

His travels took him to nearly every part of the Muslim world at the time, from Morocco to Mecca, through Africa, into Russia, over to India and even across to China. The journey he took gives us a fascinating window into what the world was like in the fourteenth century.

Twelve stories exploring the way of life, culture, customs, and ancestral wisdom of indigenous groups living in Ecuador's Equatorial Amazon.

This first English-language translation of Edna Iturralde's most popular book is a collection of twelve interrelated short stories about Ecuador's six remaining indigenous groups told from the point of view of the indigenous children themselves. They explore Native Amazonian culture, customs and ancestral wisdom highlighting their collective love, respect, and custodianship of the natural world. They offer a rare insight into indigenous Ecuadorian peoples whose culture and way of life are continuously being threatened by outsiders and the forces of modernization. This book is often cited as the Ecuadorian equivalent of the Welsh classic, How Green Was My Valley. Twenty-four new color illustrations commissioned for the English-language edition.

Edna Iturralde has won multiple national and international awards. She is considered the most important figure in children and young adult's literature in Ecuador and, with nearly sixty published books, she has attained significant international recognition. Iturralde's work has been noted by the International Latino Book Awards, the Texas Library Association, Scholastic Books' Required Summer Reading list, the Skipping Stones International Book Prize, and the Mexican Secretariat of Public Education. In the United States, four of her books were chosen to be part of the Common Core kits in schools in Los Angeles, California and Houston, Texas.

Jessica Powell holds a PhD in Hispanic Languages and Literatures from the University of California, Santa Barbara. She has published numerous translations of Latin American authors, including Antonio Benítez-Rojo, Jorge Luis Borges, César Vallejo, Adolfo Bioy Casares, Silvina Ocampo, Edgardo Rivera Martínez, María Moreno, Edmundo Paz-Soldán, Liliana Heer, Alan Pauls, and Anna Lidia Vega Serova.

A non-verbal boy with psychic powers, a mysterious forest giant, a talking ape . . . Beyond the normal and average there are—the Outliers.

Tsu and the Outliers is a graphic novel about a non-verbal boy whose rural existence appears unbearable until rumors of a monstrous giant upend his mundane life. Tsu finds himself at the center of the mystery, as his strange metaphysical connection with the creature is revealed. As the dragnet closes in, Tsu is forced to choose between a dangerous path leading beyond the periphery of human perception or a life without his only friend.

Tsu and the Outliers serves as a vehicle to explore Erik Johnson's hopes and fears of parenting and raising an autistic child. Johnson brings Tsu to life, a young hero who must balance the challenges of two separate worlds: being non-verbal and different in a small town, and having unique powers in a treacherous and fantastical world of monsters.

Erik Johnson is a graphic artist from the Northern Midwest. His illustrations have appeared in the New Yorker, Rolling Stone Magazine, and Wired. His comics have been featured in Los Angeles Magazine, The New York Times, and Nozone. He collaborated on the Minnesota Book Award Nominated hybrid novel/graphic novel Original Fake with author Kirstin Cronn-Mills for Penguin Books. Tsu and The Outliers is his first complete graphic novel.

In this fifth book in The Adventures of Wilder Good series, thirteen-year-old Wilder sets off on a ten-day hike with two friends and two dogs. In their effort to find the legendary Black Rock Bluff, the boys battle the elements—sleet, rain, and a wind that blows their tent and provisions into the river—plus a porcupine and a pack of wild dogs.

S. J. Dahlstrom lives and writes in West Texas. His writing draws on his experiences as a cowboy, husband, father, and founder of a boys' ranch. The Adventures of Wilder Good, his first book series, has won numerous awards including a Western Heritage Award and a Will Rogers Medallion Award.

Kind-hearted Lizbet and witch girl Strix embark upon a perilous quest where even the fate of Heaven is at stake.

"A picaresque fantasy debut in the mode of L. Frank Baum, in which witches and magic and God and goblins populate a world that is possibly just next door to our own. Lizbet and the witch girl Strix are delightful company in which to set out on the road." —Kelly Link, author of Get in Trouble

In Lizbet Lenz's world, the sun goes around the earth, God speaks directly to his worshippers, goblins haunt cellars, and witches lurk in forests. Disaster strikes when Lizbet's charming scoundrel father is thrown into a dungeon by the tyrant Hengest Wolftrow. To free him, Lizbet must cross the Montagnes du Monde, globe-girdling mountains that reach to the sky, a journey no one has ever survived, and retrieve a mysterious book.

Lizbet is desperate, and the only one who can help her is the unpleasant and sarcastic witch girl Strix. As the two girls journey over the mountains and into the lands of wonder beyond, on the run from goblins, powerful witches, and human criminals, Lizbet discovers, to her horror, that Strix's magic is turning Lizbet into a witch, too. Meanwhile, a revolution in Heaven is brewing.

Praise for The Road to Winter:

"A riveting story of survival that questions the prices of freedom and safety as well as the value of an individual life. . . . A breakout new series full of romance, danger, and a surprisingly engaging world." —Kirkus (starred review)

"Tense and atmospheric. . . . Smith's debut is assured, gripping and leaves you wanting more." —Sydney Morning Herald

"It's easy to see why Mark Smith's dystopian thriller has been compared with John Marsden's Tomorrow When the War Began. I barely came up for breath as the pages flew." —Kids Book Review

After a brutal winter, Finn, Kas and Willow are on a mission to fulfil the promise they've made to Rose—to find baby Hope. But they'll have to face the warlord Ramage and his gang. Ramage will stop at nothing to enslave Kas and take his revenge on Finn.

Mark Smith's second novel explores individual morality in a world without laws. Kas is a young Afghani, whose view of humanity is shaped by her experience as a refugee. She is ready for the battle ahead. Finn's moral code, instilled by a secure middle-class upbringing, is tested when it comes to survival in the wild.

Praise for Paula Weston's Rephaim series:

"A gripping read." —School Library Journal

"Filled with heart-racing action, enthralling plot lines and some very kick-ass characters." —YA Midnight Reads

"Plenty of twists and thrills to keep readers on the edge of their seats." —Book Trust

"Gloriously entertaining romance, heart-stopping action, clever and interesting plot—all skillfully tied together with barrels of tension and emotion." —Realm of Fiction

"Thrilling plots, chemistry between the sassy lead characters and action, and delivers. . . . Highly recommended." —The Bookbag

"One of the most original and intriguing new young adult series available." —Alpha Reader

Eighteen-year-old Julianne De Marchi is different. As in: she has an electrical undercurrent that stings and surges beneath her skin. She can use it—to spark a fire, maybe even end a life—but she doesn't understand what it is. And she can barely control it, especially when she's anxious.

Then she meets Ryan Walsh. She doesn't know he's a soldier working for a secret unit that has her under surveillance. He doesn't know what it is that's making the sparks fly between them. And neither of them knows who caused the explosion that has them trapped in an elevator together.

Great writing, heart-burning characters, probing questions about where technology is taking us—and a plot that zips and zings like an electrical current itself.

A supernatural thriller with a literary angle—a story about survival and the different ways we deal with grief.

Praise for Friday Never Leaving:

"A tense, multilayered tale about loyalty, memory and survival. . . . Lyrical, suspenseful and haunting." —Kirkus

"Wakefield reveals herself to be a master of madness and suspense, rivaling such authors as Adele Griffin and Neal Shusterman. . . . The story throbs with uneasiness; curses, terrible secrets, and twisted relationships all threaten to explode at any moment. Wakefield's writing is gorgeous." —Booklist

"Gives voice to the bullied, those with mental issues, and teens who can't face the truth but find self-worth in spite of their flaws." —School Library Journal

Everyone knows seventeen-year-old Grace Foley is a bit mad. She's a prankster and she's not afraid of anything—except losing. As part of the feud between two local schools in Swanston, Grace accepts a challenge to walk the pipe. That night she is haunted by voices and visions.

As she's drawn deeper into a twenty-year-old mystery surrounding missing girl Hannah Holt, the thin veil between this world and the next begins to slip. She can no longer tell what's real—all she knows is the ghosts of Swanston, including that of her own mother, are restless. It seems one of them has granted her an extraordinary gift at a terrible price.

Her body, her thoughts, even her actions seem to belong to a stranger. Grace is losing herself, and her friends don't understand. Is she moving closer to the truth? Or is she heading for madness?

A raw, funny, and truthful take on two young people tackling grief, loss, and first love.

"A raw and moving debut with beautifully flawed, well-drawn characters who you can't help but fall in love with." —Gabrielle Tozer, author of Faking It

"There are no easy answers in this book; its scenes explore debilitating anger and frustration, first sexual experiences and the importance of therapy in recovery. But there is deftness of touch in the writing and some genuinely funny moments. This is a strong, character-driven story . . . which tackles some hefty issues with lightness and humor." —Books + Publishing

Gideon Franks-Myer and Ava Spirini go to the same school, but they don't know each other until Gideon starts working at Magic Kebab with Ava. It's been six months since Ava's best friend Kelly took her own life. Ava's life, right now, sucks beyond measure. Gideon, however, is just starting to get his shit together.

Gideon is the first person who understands what Ava is going through. They slowly become friends when they start sending each other letters, like real letters, with a stamp, because in an effort to get better Gideon has rid his life of all technological devices.

These are two young people who know all too well that life is messy, and who are doing their best to wade through the clutter and complications. As they do, and because of each other, they also realize that life can sometimes be a little bit beautiful too.

How would a kitchen maid fare against a seven-headed dragon? What happens when a woman marries a mouse? And what can a young man learn from a thousand leaf cutter ants? Famed Love and Rockets creator Jaime Hernandez asks these questions and more as he transforms beloved myths into bold, stunning, and utterly contemporary comics. Guided by the classic works of F. Isabel Campoy and Alma Flor Ada, Hernandez's first book for young readers brings the sights and stories of Latin America to a new generation of graphic novel fans around the world.

Jaime Hernandez is the co-creator, along with his brothers Gilbert and Mario, of the comic book series Love and Rockets. Since publishing the first issue of Love and Rockets in 1981, Hernandez has won an Eisner Award, twelve Harvey Awards, and the Los Angeles Times Book Prize. The New York Times Book Review calls him one of the most talented artists our culture has ever produced.

What's the scoop behind all the mucus?

Did you know snails build roads like architects, shoot arrows like archers, and go undercover in camouflage like spies? Did you know they can be smaller than a seed or bigger than a grownup's hand? Kevin McCloskey mixes snail science, art, and hilarity for the newest book in his Giggle and Learn series, praised by the New York Times as "a winning combination of facts and gross-out fun."

Kevin McCloskey teaches illustration at Kutztown University in Pennsylvania. He has traveled the country from the Franklin Institute, Philadelphia to the California Academy of Sciences sharing fascinating facts about common creatures.

Orders for Consortium books combine to ship with books sold by PGW, Two Rivers, and Ingram Academic.

Orders ship when the combined net value is $100 or more.

Consortium ships free freight to US retailers.

Accounts can now sign up for automatic order confirmation emails when orders are entered, and when orders ship. Contact Celeste Winters (celeste.winters @ingramcontent.com) to enroll.

Electronic invoices and credit memos are available to accounts with credit terms. Contact Yolanda Garrett (yolanda.garrett@ ingramcontent.com) to enroll.

Consortium now offers credit for damaged books up to $100 through our affidavit returns policy. Contact orderentry@perseusbooks.com to receive credit for damaged merchandise.

Please note:
All prices and publication dates are subject to change without notice.

Prospective Publishers

If you are an independent publisher and feel that you could thrive in partnership with us, please send us the following information for our review:

- Two or more sample titles and sample marketing plans
- An overview of your company and current distribution
- Brief overview of your current or prospective publishing program including a list of frontlist and backlist titles, publication dates, author and promotional information
- Current catalog (if available)

Please send submissions to the following address:

Consortium Book Sales & Distribution
Attn: Publisher Acquisitions
The Keg House
34 13th Avenue NE, Suite 101
Minneapolis, MN 55413-1007

Outside the United States and Canada, please send submissions to:

Managing Director
Ingram Content Group
Regus St. Paul's
Room 201c
16 St. Martin's Le Grand
London EC7 4EN

Please allow 6–8 weeks for a response. We are not able to take calls to see if your book has arrived, so please use a traceable form of shipment (UPS, FedEx, certified mail, etc.) that provides you with a receipt for proof of delivery.

Consortium Book Sales & Distribution is the exclusive distributor for more than 100 independent publishers from the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, Europe, India, and Australia. Books are represented by the Consortium sales force in the United States and Canada. In addition to sales and distribution services, we provide marketing, promotional, and event support.
